ACTING LIKE CHILDREN

Travelling Light, Polka and Action Transport Theatre are investigating the art of 'acting like children'

Professional theatre directors Kevin Dyer, Jonathan Lloyd and artistic producer Jude Merrill will share their wisdom and get to the heart of:

Why are children so often portrayed so badly on the stage?

What is the secret that actors and directors are missing?

How do we help the audience believe that adults are children on the stage?

Where does it go wrong in the rehearsal process?

How do we do it better?

What are the keys?

Method or instinct?

Across the three days there will be use of practical exercises, small group work, listening, sharing, laughing, playing, and actor-demonstration. An experience to learn, skill-up and practically explore – time which you wouldn't normally get in the rehearsal room.
